Autism in the Classroom: A Multi-sensory Approach to Behavioral Management

Working with children with autism is very rewarding and poses a new adventure each day. Educators who work with students with autism need a toolkit of support to help their students be successful in the classroom. In this session, participants will engage in multi-sensory strategies to help students excel.

January 16, 2024

Making Math Relevant: The Culturally Responsive Math Classroom

Participants will gain a better knowledge of how to incorporate culturally responsive techniques into the mathematics classroom to suit the needs of all children while engaging in culturally relevant activities. We will explore tools to enhance curriculum and teaching methods to ensure an inclusive and responsive learning experience.

March 12, 2024

Empowering Paraprofessionals in Science Education

This professional learning opportunity is designed to empower paraprofessionals with the knowledge, skills, and confidence they need to assist students with science instruction effectively. Participants will gain a deeper understanding of scientific concepts, learn strategies for engaging students in scientific inquiry, and develop practical skills for supporting science inquiry activities.

May 14, 2024

Understanding the IEP

In this 2 hour session, participants will gain an understanding of a student’s Individualized Education Program. They will explore the components of the IEP and develop a plan for supporting students in the classroom in order to impact student achievement.

November 14, 2023

Strategies for Supporting Students with Disabilities During Small Group Instruction

Supporting students with disabilities during small group instruction is crucial to student success. Small group instruction offers a unique opportunity to provide targeted and individualized support to students, enabling them to access the general education curriculum. In this two hour session, participants will engage in strategies for supporting students during small group instruction.

December 19, 2023

Autism in the Classroom: A Multi-sensory Approach to Behavioral Management

Working with children with autism is very rewarding and poses a new adventure each day. Educators who work with students with autism need a toolkit of support to help their students be successful in the classroom. In this session, participants will engage in multi-sensory strategies to help students excel.

January 16, 2024

Making Math Relevant: The Culturally Responsive Math Classroom

Participants will gain a better knowledge of how to incorporate culturally responsive techniques into the mathematics classroom to suit the needs of all children while engaging in culturally relevant activities. We will explore tools to enhance curriculum and teaching methods to ensure an inclusive and responsive learning experience.

March 12, 2024

Let’s Get to Know our ELL Students: Understanding the Second Language Acquisition Process

In this 2 hour session, participants will learn the stages of the language acquisition process. They will develop an awareness of the attributes of each stage and how these can impact instruction. Participants will also have the opportunity to practice strategies that can support ELLs and MLLs navigate classroom instruction.

April 16, 2024

Empowering Paraprofessionals in Science Education

This professional learning opportunity is designed to empower paraprofessionals with the knowledge, skills, and confidence they need to assist students with science instruction effectively. Participants will gain a deeper understanding of scientific concepts, learn strategies for engaging students in scientific inquiry, and develop practical skills for supporting science inquiry activities.

May 14, 2024